

International Workshop on Archaeological Soil Micromorphology,
Nancy (France), 11ⁿ - 12th April 2019

WASM Nancy 2019

Dear colleagues,

We are happy to invite you to the next annual working session on Archaeological Soil Micromorphology that will be held at Nancy, in Lorraine (France), the 11 and 12 April 2019.

This workshop will follow the aim of previous ones, as the last one in Bruxelles : an informal meeting, where participants are invited to bring their thin sections and where microscopy time and exchange of ideas and experiences prevail. Posters to present your thematic and problematic are welcome.

The workshop will be organized at the Faculty of Sciences (“Campus Aiguillette”) of the University of Lorraine, by Anne Gebhardt and Anne Poszwa (Laboratoire Interdisciplinaire des Environnements Continentaux). It will take place in practical class rooms, kindly made available at those dates by the Department of Geosciences, which proposes several types of microscopes for around 20 /25 workers.

As the workshop is free of charge and not sponsored, lunch on your own cost will be propose at the university cafeteria and we invite you to organize yourself for accommodation. Nancy has a big choice of hotels, small cafés and restaurants for evening meals and drinks...

Registration and expression of interest:

If you wish to attend the workshop, we ask you to send an expression of interest (see attached form) by mail to Anne.gebhardt-even@inrap.fr

Looking forward to see you next spring.

The organization committee:

Anne Gebhardt, Anne Poszwa
